II. Are there any districts/schools that had parents request your company's services but you were unable to fulfill the request(s)? If so, what kept the company from providing the requested services at that particular site (i.e., finances, lack of available tutors, school site did not meet the minimum student count on your application, district was not in the 'areas served' as indicated on your approved SES application, etc)?

III. For each school you are serving in the district(s) this semester, list the date tutoring services began. If applicable, indicate why services have not begun in a school(s) where you have been selected by parents (i.e., tutors are still pretesting students, school has not notified provider to begin services, student learning plans have not been approved, district/provider contracts have not been signed, etc).

IV. Has any district/school(s) been more challenging to communicate or work with on a consistent basis? If so, share the issues that have been occurring with the specific school(s).

V. Which school provider fairs/open houses were you invited to attend and disseminate information to parents? If you were not able to attend, was there an opportunity to leave information for the school facilitators to share with parents in your absence?

VI. It seems this year it has been popular for some providers to request the use of district/school computer labs. This year, some districts are charging a fee, some districts are not charging, and some districts are not allowing any public use of computer labs. If you are an approved provider for Kansas in 2010-2011, do you anticipate a need to use the school's computer lab to provide SES services?
