Imagination in Action, at National Leadership Conference

By: Ryan Haxton

Kansas delegates of FCCLA had the opportunity to attend the 66th Annual National Leadership conference. 274 members of the Kansas FCCLA association attended the conference and experienced FCCLA at the national level.

114 Kansas delegates attended NLC as a STAR event competitor. Also state officers had the opportunity to participate in Network teams that allowed them to work on improving their state association by connecting with other State officers and working on specific goals.

The conference theme was "NLC Live" and the National executive council presented the conference by using old Saturday Night Live skits to present awards and all aspects of the conference.

Southeast of Saline High school was awarded the Families First national runner-up award for their project "Reaching for Reed" Tonganoxie middle school was also awarded the middle school winner for the national program Community service. Joey Platt of Kansas also finished out her term in Anaheim as the National, Vice president of community service.

Members also had the opportunity to attend youth workshops on all different types of activities and topics relating to FCCLA and FACS classes.

Victoria High School Chapter shows their hard work off attempting to get new FCCLA members

The members from Victoria High School FCCLA, KS., danced their way into a new year. At the annual welcome back bash, the local officers got everyone involved by having a dance contest with the entire school. This activity went along with their chapter theme for the year: America's Best FCCLA Crew. They encouraged all students to join. The officers then gathered all new freshman together a second day to explain what FCCLA is all about and had fun with the "Cookie Face" activity. The Victoria FCCLA has the largest student membership of any organization at VHS.
