

STAR Events Tips for Success!

Hints and Reminders for State Leadership Conference STAR Events:

(A few things the State Competitive Events Committee wants you to be aware of)

1. The Online Events, Skill Demonstration Events, and Knowledge Bowl Cluster participants will be recognized at State Leadership Conference, as well as those who qualified for National Leadership Conference.
2. Due to the past practice of Kansas following National rules, electricity will not be provided during competition.

3. The dress code for State Leadership Conference will be strictly enforced during the Competitive Events recognition sessions.
4. The new Competitive Events Manual is now available on the National Website (www.fcclainc.org). Please download and print.
 - a. Also, remember to always use the NEW manual.

STAR Events Hints:

1. Read the rules often
2. Practice alone and in front of others
3. Always use the NEW Manual
4. Ask any questions you may have
5. Encourage other participants and competitors
6. Strive to do your very best!

Good Luck!

Chapter Meeting Activities!

This is called dangerous driver, and what each student does is they get on their cell phone and have to remain looking at their cell phone the whole time while walking around trying to dodge every object/person they can without looking up, if they run into something or someone or look up they are to be considered out! It's really a lot of fun but also stresses the importance of keeping off your cell phone while driving and displays how quickly you can have an "accident" even though you never saw it coming!

In the Goodland High School FCCLA Chapter we do an activity that really promotes teamwork. At our chapter meetings we separate the chapter into 3-5 different groups and then they are given marshmallows and toothpicks. The teams are given 10 min. to build a free standing tower. The group with the tallest tower at the end of the 10 min. wins! This activity helps build communicating skills as well as promoting teamwork!

One of my favorite ice breakers is one called "Two Truths and a Lie." The objective of this activity is to have each person in the group write down two truths about themselves and one lie. Then, the people in the group take turns going around and reading off their list. The others in the group try their best to pick and guess which statement is the lie. When the truth is finally revealed, it could be quite interesting. With each person having different lives, ideas, and experiences, it is sometimes hard to imagine what the truths or lie could possibly be!

Try out this ice breaker with a group of friends and see what interesting facts you can learn about them!
