Please provide any additional comments about or exceptions to the admissions information provided above:

Students seeking admission into the program can meet the criteria of demonstrating basic skills in reading, writing and math in a variety of ways: ACT scores that meet the national average of subskills in reading, writing and math; SAT scores that meet the national average of subskills in similar areas; CAAP scores that meet the national average in reading, writing, and math; and CASE scores that meet the cut scores established by the Kansas State Department of Education. Students can use a combination of these tests. Student must have completed at least 38 credit hours and attained at least a 2.5 GPA before applying. An interview is also an important part of our admission process to the program. The Teacher Education Committee, comprised of faculty from across campus, teacher education faculty, and two education students who have been admitted to the program, interview students seeking admission into the program. Students must meet the interview cut score established by the Unit faculty as part of the criteria to be considered for admission. Students who have the appropriate cut scores in all three areas are fully admitted; students who have the appropriate cut scores in two of the three are provisionally admitted.

Section I.c Enrollment

Provide the number of students in the teacher preparation program in the following categories. Note that you must report on the number of students by ethnicity and race separately. Individuals who are non-Hispanic/Latino will be reported in one of the race categories. Also note that individuals can belong to one or more racial groups, so the sum of the members of each racial category may not necessarily add up to the total number of students enrolled.

For the purpose of Title II reporting, an enrolled student is defined as a student who has been admitted to a teacher preparation program, but who has not completed the program during the academic year being reported. An individual who completed the program during the academic year being reported is counted as a program completer and not an enrolled student.

Please provide any additional information about or descriptions of the supervised clinical experiences:

While the candidate is in clinical practice, the cooperating teacher completes a formal, formative evaluation of the candidate at least three times. In addition, the university supervisor observes the student and completes a formal, formative evaluation at least three times for secondary students and at least four times for elementary students. If the candidate is a secondary education candidate, the content area department chair observes and evaluates the candidate at least once. At the end of clinical practice, the university supervisor and cooperating teacher jointly complete a summative evaluation of the candidate and fills out a disposition for the candidate.

Section II Assurances

Please certify that your institution is in compliance with the following assurances. (§205(a)(1)(A)(iii), §206(b)) Note: Be prepared to provide documentation and evidence for your responses, when requested, to support the following assurances.

Preparation responds to the identified needs of the local educational agencies or States where the program completers are likely to teach, based on past hiring and recruitment trends.

Yes

Preparation is closely linked with the needs of schools and the instructional decisions new teachers face in the classroom.

Yes

Prospective special education teachers are prepared in core academic subjects and to instruct in core academic subjects.

Yes

Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students with disabilities.

Yes

Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to limited English proficient students.

Yes

Prospective general education teachers are prepared to provide instruction to students from low-income families.

Yes

Prospective teachers are prepared to effectively teach in urban and rural schools, as applicable.

Yes

Describe your institution's most successful strategies in meeting the assurances listed above:

Our program incorporates four successful strategies that assist us in meeting the assurances listed above. First, the Teacher Education Advisory Council provides the Teacher Education Department with information regarding specific needs of local schools and contributes to the success of candidates. Second, the Teacher Education Program has allocated funds to bring in expert teachers to address specific topics that target understanding children's needs and provide instructional and behavioral strategies that address those needs. These educational programs are in addition to the instructional strategies received in candidates' psychology, SPED and methods classes. A third successful strategy has been the evaluation of the assurances by cooperating teachers in early field experiences and clinical practice. The final strategy has been requiring candidates to specifically address ELL, SPED and other needs in their lesson plans. This has helped them to consciously plan instruction to meet the specific needs of those children. Candidates seeking special education endorsement complete the elementary or secondary requirements of Kansas Wesleyan University (KWU) and take addition courses in special education through the Associated College of Central Kansas (ACCK), a consortium of six area private colleges of which KWU is a member.

Section IV Low-Performing

Provide the following information about the approval or accreditation of your teacher preparation program.

Is your teacher preparation program currently approved or accredited?

Yes

If yes, please specify the organization(s) that approved or accredited your program:

State

NCATE

Is your teacher preparation program currently under a designation as "low-performing" by the state (as per section 207(a) of the HEA of 2008)?

No

Section V Use of Technology

Provide the following information about the use of technology in your teacher preparation program. Please note that choosing 'yes' indicates that your teacher preparation program would be able to provide evidence upon request.

Does your program prepare teachers to:

- integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction
Yes
- use technology effectively to collect data to improve teaching and learning
Yes
- use technology effectively to manage data to improve teaching and learning
Yes
- use technology effectively to analyze data to improve teaching and learning
Yes

Provide a description of the evidence that your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to integrate technology effectively into curricula and instruction, and to use technology effectively to collect, manage, and analyze data in order to improve teaching and learning for the purpose of increasing student academic achievement. Include a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares teachers to use the principles of universal design for learning, as applicable. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the four elements listed above are not currently in place.

All preservice teachers must satisfactorily complete a course titled Instructional Technology. In this course they learn the various applications of technology to the classroom. Preservice teachers are then expected to apply these technologies in their development of units and lesson plans in their content areas. When in clinical practice, candidates are evaluated on their use of technology during instruction.

Section VI Teacher Training

Provide the following information about your teacher preparation program. Please note that choosing 'yes' indicates that your teacher preparation program would be able to provide evidence upon request.

Does your program prepare general education teachers to:

- teach students with disabilities effectively
Yes
- participate as a member of individualized education program teams
Yes
- teach students who are limited English proficient effectively
Yes

Provide a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares general education teachers to teach students with disabilities effectively, including training related to participation as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, and to effectively teach students who are limited English proficient. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the three elements listed above are not currently in place.

Preservice teachers must satisfactorily complete a course which addresses individuals with special needs including those who have disabilities, who are gifted and talented, and who have limited English proficiency. The course addresses differentiated instruction, and students develop instructional activities which address the various needs of P-12 students. During this course, all preservice teachers must complete 20 hours of early field experience (EFE). During their EFE, they specifically observe cooperating teachers accommodating the needs of students by differentiating their instruction. Within their methods courses, preservice teachers are required to develop lesson plans with differentiation for the P-12 students addressing disabilities, gifted and talented and limited English proficiency. Finally, during clinical practice, candidates prepare and present a unit which must address accommodations for student with special needs.

Does your program prepare special education teachers to:

- teach students with disabilities effectively
Yes
- participate as a member of individualized education program teams
Yes
- teach students who are limited English proficient effectively
Yes

Provide a description of the evidence your program uses to show that it prepares special education teachers to teach students with disabilities effectively, including training related to participation as a member of individualized education program teams, as defined in section 614(d)(1)(B) of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, and to effectively teach students who are limited English proficient. Include planning activities and a timeline if any of the three elements listed above are not currently in place.

While Kansas Wesleyan University (KWU) prepares special education teachers to teach students with disabilities effectively through the Associated Colleges of Central Kansas (ACCK), this is not an initial license area. In Kansas SPED is not an initial license area and must be added as an endorsement to an initial license area. ACCK is a consortium of the six area member colleges: Bethany College at Lindsborg, Bethel College at North Newton, Kansas Wesleyan University at Salina, McPherson College at McPherson, Sterling College at Sterling, and Tabor College at Hillsboro. Preservice teachers at KWU pursue an endorsement in adaptive special education at the K-6, the 6-12, or K-12 levels by taking the coursework provided by ACCK. This coursework includes field experience for three of the four courses. ACCK has developed an assessment system that is aligned with its conceptual framework, Kansas Adaptive Special Education Standards, and national standards for teacher accreditation. ACCK has a fully accredited program. The assessment system includes content-based assessment (Praxis II), assessment of the candidate's ability to plan instruction, assessment of clinical experience, assessment of candidate's effect on student learn, philosophical/historical/legal foundations, assessment, and managing behavior/problem-solving/social skills. ACCK students consistently meet or exceed standards. Students unable to meet standards are not formally accepted into the ACCK Adaptive Special Education Program, which is required before clinical experience (student teaching). liberal arts tradition. The University is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools-Higher Learning Commission (NCA-HLC). In spring 2007, the University completed a successful Higher Learning Commission regional accreditation visit, with recommendations for continued accreditation for a 10-year period with no required interim follow-up visits or reports. The Teacher Education Program is accredited by the Kansas Board of Education (since 1947) and the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (since 2002). It is the philosophy of the Teacher Education Program that a liberal arts education coupled with an academic major and professional teacher training produces an effective P-12 teacher. The Conceptual Framework of the program states: "Kansas Wesleyan University prepares reflective teachers with the potential for professional leadership who demonstrate academic and professional excellence, have sound personal qualities, have a commitment to education and life-long learning, demonstrate world citizenship and are committed to faith." KWU offers 10 academic programs that lead to teacher licensure with additional endorsements available in SPED. Academic courses are recommended for candidates interested in adding a middle level endorsement through test only. The recommended academic courses are viewed as helping prepare the candidates for success in meeting the cut scores on the PRAXIS content tests. Three important groups provide oversight for the Teacher Education Program--the Unit Faculty, Teacher Education Committee and the Teacher Education Advisory Council. Each group has different representation and provides a specific function in the program. The Unit faculty is comprised of the 10 department chairs of the academic programs that lead to licensure and the two full-time Department faculty. This group oversees curriculum, assessments, and procedures in teacher education. The Teacher Education Committee is comprised of faculty from the academic programs that lead to licensure, the two full-time Department faculty, and two candidates who have been fully accepted into the teacher education program. The committee makes decisions regarding acceptance of students into the program and clinical practice. The committee also decides on probation within or dismissal from the program and hears appeals made to the Teacher Education Program. The Teacher Education Advisory Council is comprised of teachers and administrators in the field, graduates of the program, faculty, community members, and two candidates who are who are fully accepted into the teacher education program. This Council makes recommendations regarding program evaluations, follow-up surveys, early field experiences, and provides a link to the educational community in Salina and surrounding areas. A testimony to the success of KWU's teacher education program are the number of teachers employed by USD 305, Salina. These graduates are contributing to the quality of the Salina schools and their success in meeting AYP.
